

Positioning and potentials of Greenland on the FRENCH holiday travel market

Full report

April 2023

Maike Braun, Nadine Yarar & Ulf Sonntag, NIT

Introduction and background of this study

- » Visit Greenland has commissioned the Institute for Tourism Research in Northern Europe (NIT) to conduct a market research studies on the “Positioning and potential of Greenland” in eight European and North American countries (DE, FR, UK, DK, SE, NO, US, CA).
- » The central aim is to get a thorough and complete picture on the volume, the structure, the attitudes and images of the market potential of Greenland in these markets, in order to provide a sound basis for the future strategic planning of Greenland concerning its marketing efforts, product development and communication.
- » The studies followed the same methodological approach as previous studies 2016 in Germany, Great Britain and USA, 2017 in France and in 2018 in Scandinavia. Timeline analyses based on the new 2023 studies with the “old” studies of 2016/2017/2018 are possible.
- » The following reports are being published in the context of this multi-market study:
 - » One report on the German market
 - » One report on the French market
 - » One report on the UK market
 - » One report on the Scandinavian market
 - » One report on the North American market
 - » One comparative report covering the baseline information of all the five markets.
- » This document is the market report about the FRENCH market.
- » The results are based on 3,000 online interviews that were conducted in France in January 2023 by our partner DyVisit Greenland/Air Greenland. The results are representative for the population in France aged 18-75 years.

Volume extrapolations of actual and potential travellers to Greenland in France total

FUNNEL

Definition

- » The volume funnel puts the reported market shares in relation to the actual market size and delivers concrete volume figures.
- » In the population of 47 million French 18-75 years old, you find 5 million who are generally interested to travel to Greenland in the next 5 years.
- » The hard potential of "almost definitely planning to visit Greenland within the next 2 years" represents almost 1 million persons.
- » Comparing this with the actual pre-pandemic French arrivals in Greenland of 5,000 in 2019 shows that you only need to activate a small proportion of the potential travellers to achieve "good" numbers from this market.

To learn 1: Interest to travel to Greenland & competitors

Interest to travel to remote destinations

- » 84% of the French population would like to go to at least one of the 10 remote destinations covered in the questionnaire in the next 5 years. 62% are almost definitely planning to go to at least one of these destinations in the next 2 years.
- » Canada is the most popular destination in terms of general interest, Iceland, New Zealand and Patagonia follow.
- » Canada, Iceland and New Zealand are also the most popular destinations in terms of the “hard potential”.
- » 11% of the French would generally like to go to Greenland and 2% are almost definitely planning to go there.
- » Compared to 2017 the “general” potential as well as the “hard” potential of the surveyed countries has increased in most of the countries. Interest to travel to Greenland increased by 2%-pts since 2017.

Competitive situation in France

- » A look at the competitive situation of Greenland shows that in France, potential travellers to Greenland are also interested in 4.3 other remote destinations in our question set.
- » The fiercest competitor are by far Canada and Iceland. 74% of the potential Greenland travellers also want to go to Canada and 71% to Iceland. They are followed by New Zealand, Alaska and Northern Scandinavia.
- » Looking further into the details, there is a high likelihood that within the next two years the potential Greenland travellers end up in Canada and to a lesser extent in Iceland before they actually travelling to Greenland.

- » Compared with the actual demand, there is a interest to travel to Greenland in France. This is where destination marketing comes in. The following part of the report should help with strategic marketing decisions.
- » When looking at the comparison over time and the development since 2017, it shows that the potential for all the survey countries has increased and the share of those French interested in going to Greenland within the next 5 years increased by 2%-pts. since 2017.
- » The results also show that Greenland is in fierce competition with other (remote) destinations around the world.

Image benchmarking in France: Greenland and competitors

- » When benchmarking the images of Greenland and its main competitors Iceland and Northern Scandinavia, we find that stunning scenery, unspoiled nature and natural phenomena are important image factors in all those destinations.
- » Greenland is sticking out over its two competitors regarding the following image characteristics: Seeing the Arctic now, not too touristic and difficult to reach.
- » The other destinations are sticking out over Greenland regarding the following characteristics ...
 - » Iceland: Wellness, hospitable people and summer outdoor activities
 - » Northern Scandinavia: Summer outdoor activities, culture & history and delicious local cuisine.

- » The results about the image of Greenland in France give you a clear picture of how Greenland is perceived as a holiday destination in this market. They also clearly show what potential travellers expect and what not.
- » This together with the benchmarking with Iceland and Northern Scandinavia, gives you first indications about the strengths and weaknesses of Greenland from the travellers' point of view. This can already give you important clues for planning a market specific marketing and communication strategy.

Potential travellers to Greenland

- » Visit Greenland developed a segmentation model build on different levels of “adventure”. Here you can find all about this segmentation approach: <https://traveltrade.visitgreenland.com/la-test-news/new-simplified-segmentation/>
- » Looking at the results of our survey, we first see that in France the share of non-adventurers (those not fitting with the definitions of the segments) is a lot higher in the population (44%) than for potential travellers (25%).
- » With the potential travellers, 26% belong to the “soft adventurers”, 38% to the “immersive” and 11% to the “ultimate adventurers”.

Soft Adventurer (comfort, a little physical exertion, and a more observant approach to local culture)
Immersive Adventurer (some degree of physical activity, and more engaged contact with locals and the local culture)
Ultimate Adventurer (a full 'deep dive' into nature and/or physical challenges, and/or 'living like a local' to have as culturally authentic experiences as possible)
None of the VG adventure segments

6. Reasons against travelling to Greenland

Reasons against travelling to Greenland (population)

2017

87% named at least one objection

- » One of the final questions in the survey examines reasons against travelling to Greenland.
- » The good news first: 13% of the French have no general objections to travel to Greenland. In turn, this means that 87% of the population named at least one objection against travelling to Greenland.
- » Most important reasons against travelling to Greenland are the expected high costs, closely followed by the coldness. Bad weather and poor accessibility are also considerable reasons against travelling to Greenland for the French population.
- » Compared with 2017, the figure for too expensive has dropped quite significantly.
- » There are also important factors in place, that are not directly linked to the tourism offer in Greenland (marked grey).

Reasons against travelling to Greenland (potential travellers to Greenland)

2017

- » Even more important is to understand what stops those interested in travelling to Greenland from going there.
- » Among the potential travellers in France 17% sees no reason to not travel to Greenland. This indicates that even among the potential travellers to Greenland 83% have at least one objection against going there.
- » For the rest the main barrier seems to be the price. 45% of the potential travellers consider Greenland too expensive. This figure is much higher than in the population.
- » Three other important barriers are the cold climate, bad weather and whale hunting.
- » Interestingly, the figure for too expensive dropped significantly since 2017 while the figures for most of the other reasons saw an increase.

To learn 6: Reasons against travelling to Greenland

Population:

- » 13% of the French have no general objections to travel to Greenland. Most important reasons against travelling to Greenland are the expected high costs, closely followed by the coldness. Bad weather (15%) and poor accessibility (12%) are also considerable reasons against travelling to Greenland for the French population. There are also important factors in place, that are not directly linked to the tourism offer in Greenland.

Potential guests:

- » Among the potential travellers in France 17% sees no reason to not travel to Greenland. For the rest the main barrier seems to be the price. 45% of the potential travellers consider Greenland “too expensive”. This figure is much higher than in the population. Three other important barriers are the cold climate, bad weather and poor accessibility.
- » Interestingly, the figure for too expensive dropped significantly since 2017 while the figures for most of the other reasons saw an increase.

- » The results of Chapter 1 show a huge potential of people interested to travel to Greenland in France.
- » To transform these potential guests into actual ones, it is not only important to know who they are (chapter 4) and what they want (chapter 3) but also the possible reasons against travelling to Greenland.
- » The results of this chapter give hints what to address in your communication and product (price, climate, access) etc.
- » The results also show the differences between the population and potential travellers which might help you for more precise targeting.

7. Summary and main conclusions (all markets)

Summary & main conclusions: SIMILARITIES of markets

Status 2023:

- » Greenland is on the map in all the markets
Consumers in all markets are aware of Greenland as a travel destination. They know what to expect there and a small share of the population is interested to travel there.
- » High interest – fierce competition
Compared to actual travellers, there is a huge interest to travel to Greenland. On the other hand there is a fierce competition with other remote destinations, above all with ICELAND → Here lies also an opportunity, as many potential travellers to Greenland are interested in combining Greenland and Iceland in one trip.
- » Image and experiences in Greenland
Potential travellers are imagining unspoilt nature, quietness and a not touristic place – and they want to experience the scenery, natural phenomena and wildlife → You can see that Greenland's main assets are quite fragile, potentially quickly endangered by too many tourists at the same time
- » Travel planning
Online and offline sources are being used for inspiration – for travelling some prefer is individual, some prefer the help of a tour operator and like to travel in a group. Generally, the “right product for the right price” is what most people need to make the final decision for Greenland → Need for an appropriate multi-channel marketing mix, working b2b and b2c. Worthwhile to look for the characteristics of the different markets.

Trends since 2016/2017/2018:

- » Interest for Greenland has increased a lot
In all markets the interest to travel to Greenland (and to most other remote destinations) has increased – in some markets quite dramatically (e.g. DE, UK, US). Two methodological observations regarding this trend in DE, UK, US: These are the markets with the “oldest” baseline surveys (2016) and the set of destinations in the 2016 version was very different from the 2023 edition.
- » Nature still dominates, but culture is becoming more important
Some results of the desired experiences and activities are somewhat lower than before – most prominently in the markets with the highest growth of the interest for Greenland. Interestingly, there seem to be bigger drops in nature-focussed experiences than in culture-focussed experience – so nature is still dominating but to a lesser extend than before. This is also true for the activities: Again, nature-focussed activities (most notably guided nature excursion) see a bigger decrease than culture-focussed activities. Niche activities regarding physical exercise (e.g. kayaking, fishing, skiing) appear to be most stable.
- » Information sources – more online but need to look carefully
Regarding preferred information sources that potential travellers would like to look at for planning their trip to Greenland, we can observe in general increases for the online sources and decreases for the offline sources in all the markets. There are some exceptions, though: Online, there is a quite steep decline for internet search engines and a slight decrease for destination websites. Offline, travel agents and personal relations are very stable or even slightly increasing in some markets.

Summary & main conclusions: DIFFERENCES of markets

- » Quite big market by volume and share.
- » Top-3 activities: experiencing quietness, photography and hiking.
- » Information sources: Guide books, OTAs, travel agents and tour operators are more important than in other markets.
- » Preference for July/August/September; staying 8-14 nights

- » Smallest market by volume and share
- » Top-3 activities: dog-sledding, experiencing quietness and wildlife watching
- » Information sources: Guide books, destination websites, travel agents and tour operators are more important than in other markets.
- » Preference for January-June; staying 8-14 nights
- » Big share of “travel dream make true”

- » Quite big market by volume and share (but not so much by actual arrivals, yet).
- » Top-3 activities: wildlife watching, culinary and nature excursions
- » Information sources: Destination websites, travel review sites and OTAs are more important than in other markets.
- » Preference for April-Sept; staying 4-7 nights
- » Biggest share of “immersive adventurer”

- » Quite small by volume but quite big by share.
- » Top-3 activities: wildlife watching, hiking and nature excursions.
- » Information sources: Destination websites, travel review sites, Social Media and personal relations are more important than in other markets.
- » Preference for April-Sept; staying 4-10 nights
- » Big share of “good price”
- » Biggest share of “soft adventurer”

- » Biggest market by volume and share; but careful: tends to be over-enthusiastic compared to European markets
- » Top-3 activities: wildlife watching, culinary and photography.
- » Information sources: Destination websites, travel review sites, Social Media and OTAs are more important than in other markets.
- » Preference for April-Sept; staying 4-10 nights
- » Biggest share of “travel dream make true”
- » Biggest share of “extreme adventurer”

Altogether, these conclusions show that there are a lot of similarities between the five markets. Nevertheless, all markets have their peculiarities and it is very worthwhile to look at them individually!
